CSE3 Lightning Talks on Energy & Environment

CSE3 in collaboration with ECU Natural Resources and Environment (NR&E) Research Cluster successfully conducted the Lightning Talks on Energy and Environment event on November 21, 2019 at ECU. The event brought together more than 20 current and new CSE3 affiliate faculty from different colleges and expertise across ECU. The event saw active participation by faculty from the Coastal Studies Institute (CSI). In terms of student impact, the event played host to more than 20 graduate and undergraduate students from different colleges across ECU. With the ultimate aim of facilitating more research collaboration, each affiliate faculty member was given four minutes to present details about his/her research and seek collaborators for their projects. A Q&A session was held at the end of the event. Overall, the Lightning talks event impacted about 30 CSE3 affiliate faculty and 25 graduate and undergraduate students from ECU.
